Dear Supporters, Volunteers, and Friends of Life's Key Ministry,

We have been blessed with the opportunity to connect with many existing students in the state of Georgia as well as enroll many new ones over the past couple of months. The transitioning of students from the previous ministry to ours has been a big challenge, but we have been working hard to ensure that nobody is falling through the cracks during that process. It's so encouraging to see growth and enthusiasm that occurs when inmates tell other inmates about what they are experiencing through the Emmaus courses, and we have seen great evidence of that between the increasing number of new enrollments as well as testimonials.

The increase has been an answer to prayer and has gotten us back to the point where we have enough to meet the bulk mail requirements, meaning that we can mail every week. That has also been a big encouragement to both me and those who work in the office because once again there is plenty of work to go around.

DEAR LIFE'S KEY,

Below are two responses to one of the questions associated with the course "The Letter to the Romans". That question is: "Romans 9 describes God as the potter and us as the clay. Considering God's sovereignty, how do you feel about how your life has been formed to this point?"

"I feel loved. I feel as though He wanted me to fail and to realize I can't do things on my own without Him. I have fallen to the lowest point in my life. This is where the ultimate change in my life occurred and is continuing. I am so thankful that He is in my life. I couldn't make it through prison without Him. I am excited for what my life will be like outside of prison with God leading my life." - Travis (Ohio)

"Believe it or not, I'm ok with it. Obviously I don't like being in prison or being away from my family, but this has shown me the truth of the gospel and allowed me to become a true believer and to work to help others." - William (Kentucky).

This is a response to a question associated with the course "The Holy Spirit at Work". That question is: "Share how the Holy Spirit convicted you as an unbeliever of your sin and your need to be saved."

"I had lived a life of self-deception for so long that I felt I was actually living a blessed life and my sin was a normal human trait that certainly the world promoted. It wasn't until I felt the conviction of the Holy Spirit and I could see the sin for what it actually is." - Keith (Florida)

For HIS Glory,
